Scientists have been telling us about Climate Change for decades. Now the earth itself is screaming at us to pay attention to the extremes – more intense storms, more devastating floods, larger wildfires, and debilitating heat waves. Vector and water borne diseases travel poleward as these areas heat up and offer them a new home, and we are all experiencing how a simple virus can disrupt the entire planet.

Each extreme event creates climate refugees. Some are nearer than you think.

The entire world is working on a goal to reduce our greenhouse gas emissions 100% by 2050, and 50% by 2030. This is necessary to leave an inhabitable planet for our loved ones. The book in your hands is offering empowering, small steps, you and your family can take to make this a reality without going into full panic mode. Being part of the solution will make you a superhero to your children and grandchildren, which no doubt will also remove some of the parental guilt we all share. Formats available.

TESTIMONIALS / REVIEWS:

“It has been overwhelming to think of things I can do to help with the chaos of climate change and this book provides many tips that are easy to comprehend and make happen! I love the graphic on the cover too!”
